Although Photoshop is now considered a popular image editing program, it is not the only image editor. Some of the newer image-editing programs for the Macintosh and Linux platforms, such as GIMP, Paint Shop Pro, and Photoshop Elements, offer powerful features that are very similar to Photoshop. Adobe produces several different versions of Photoshop, including • Photoshop CS1.5 ($1,250 new) • Photoshop CS2 ($1,400 new) • Photoshop CS3 ($1,750 new) • Photoshop CS4 ($1,700 new) • Photoshop CS5 ($2,100 new) • Photoshop CS6 ($2,200 new) • Photoshop CS6 Extended ($2,400 new) • Photoshop Elements 9 ($200 new) • Photoshop Elements 11 ($300 new) • Photoshop Elements 12 ($300 new) You can find out about the features that each version of Photoshop supports on its Web site at Photoshop CS2 was released in 2004, and is a version of Photoshop. It includes many of the latest features developed by Adobe, including new levels of precision, increased storage, an easily usable interface, improved user safety and privacy safeguards, and an integrated printing system. Some of the features found in Photoshop CS2 and later have included the ability to print images directly from Photoshop, the ability to print a single image from a series of images, the ability to make PDF files, and the ability to work with ICC (International Color Consortium) profiles. Photoshop CS2 has also included enhancements to the functions of using color spaces to process images. Photoshop CS2 enables you to create an image in RGB and then choose to apply one of four different color space profiles to the image. The color space profiles that Photoshop CS2 enables you to apply are sRGB, Adobe RGB, Adobe Wide Gamut RGB, and ProPhoto RGB. Photoshop CS2 also adds a new features called content aware fill, which allows you to choose from several filling options, including the auto fill, color blend, replace pixels, color (use photo white), lasso (semi-transparent selection), and brush (custom) modes. Using the content aware fill option in Photoshop CS2 enables you to place content in an image automatically, even when you can't see it. Photoshop CS2 also enables you to

What's New In?

Tiger Woods has won a second major title in only his eighth start at the Masters. Woods, who previously had only four victories on the famed Georgia course, was coming off a first-round 64 and a one-stroke lead over fellow American Dustin Johnson. But he took a 3-shot lead into the back nine and, when Johnson bogeyed the 12th hole, the win was his. Woods' shot at Tigerpurr Woods: 'When you play as hard as I did, you can't go home' "You've got to be the better player, and I was," Woods said. "I made a lot of great birdies down the stretch." At one point, Woods holed a soaring 20-foot putt for eagle at the 11th hole, and he also hit a 14-foot putt for eagle on the 13th. Johnson had matching birdies at the 15th and 16th holes to close within one shot of Woods, but a tough double bogey on the 17th left him with a 71. Woods said he would "love" to play in the PGA Championship in Atlanta next month. There he is!

After winning the Masters, @TigerWoods is in full disclosure mode and takes time out of his post-victory media session to answer YOUR questions. pic.twitter.com/0O2cqDQI5N — ESPN (@ESPN) April 10, 2018 Woods said that, while he didn't know it was his eighth time playing at Augusta National, his interest in the golf course is similar to others because of its singularity. "It's a place you can just enjoy being," he said. "You can enjoy being out there." He said he'll be back to play more golf this year because he is back on the PGA Tour after a six-month break. Woods broke his silence on his return, saying on the final day of the Masters in February that he was in "good spirits" and was looking forward to returning to competition after taking a break to work on his swing. Woods won his fifth Masters title in 2001, the last of his 14 major victories. He is the sixth golfer with five or more Masters titles and the only player to win three of his last four majors. Analysis ESPN's Scott Fraser: "It's
