Myocardial ischemia associated with long-term arteriovenous extracorporeal blood circulation. Atherosclerotic stenosis of the inferior vena cava and/or renal veins in 21 patients with end-stage renal disease was treated by using long-term arteriovenous extracorporeal blood circulation (AVECB) in an attempt to improve renal function and to maintain a low-flow state of the brain. Only four patients were subjected to operations with AVECB for five to seven days. Coronary angiography and myocardial scintigraphy using MIBI were performed during AVECB and after completion of AVECB. The mean arterial pressure was maintained at around 40 mmHg and coronary perfusion pressure was ranged from 10 to 25 mmHg during AVECB. Ischemic change of the left ventricle and akinesia of the basal segments on the right ventricle were found during AVECB. Coronary blood flow index measured by ECG-gated myocardial scintigraphy decreased significantly in parallel with the duration of AVECB. Exercise tests performed before and after AVECB showed no significant change in exercise duration, peak heart rate, or peak systolic blood pressure. We conclude that AVECB may induce transient myocardial ischemia and akinesia in the left ventricle during the period of AVECB. AVECB may lead to reversible myocardial ischemia. I am not a fan of his as a person, nor as a coach. I think he is just a schmuck to say the least. But one thing I like is that he is not afraid to be himself and not hide in the shadows. When I saw this article I cringed knowing he will get a ton of hate for it, but I do not. I am not a fan of his as a person, nor e79caf774b
